The University of Freiburg offers eight international Master's Degree Programmes that are taught (predominantly) in English. The programmes attract about 250 students each year. There are very different Master Degree Programmes: e.g. Forest Ecology and Management (FEM), Global Studies (GSP) or Applied Computer Science (ACS). Coming to Freiburg from all corners of the globe, they are provided with a top level education in innovative fields and comprehensive services.

This lecture will give an overview about the different master programmes and other study possibilities at University of Freiburg.
